DEATHS ON SERVICE.

Cpl. J. W. Rae Wilson (1929)—Royal Tank Corps.
Radio-Officer R. C. McEwan (1936)—Merchant Navy.

RADIO-OFFICER R. C. McEWAN.

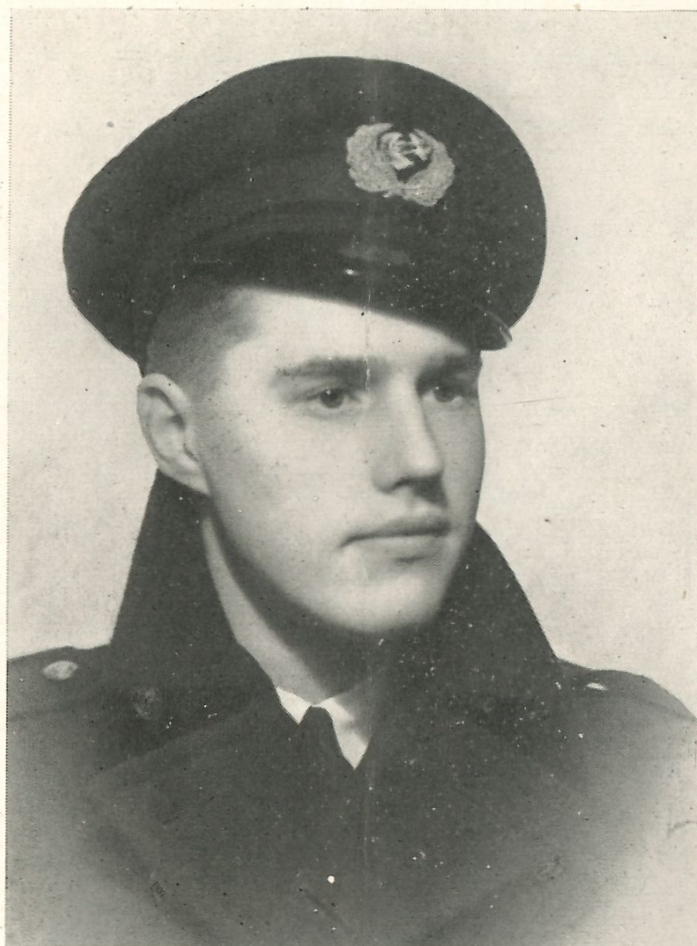

After a space of $3\frac{1}{2}$ years we have to record the death on active service of Robert Couper McEwan, but the passing of this time will in no way lessen the sincere regret with which Levites will mourn his absence from us.

"Bobs" McEwan, for that is how all who knew him will remember him, came to John Watson's at the age of nine in 1930 and during the $6\frac{1}{2}$ happy years he spent there he carved out for himself a popular position amongst his schoolmates. One can always picture him striding about, hands in pockets, a most infectious smile on his face and a cheery twinkle in his eyes.

In 1936 he left John Watson's to continue his education at Kendal Grammar School and later he studied at Leeds with a view to taking up Electrical Engineering as a career. The outbreak of war faced him with a great decision—his career or his country. He decided that his duty was to the latter and he abandoned his studies at Leeds and commenced training as a wireless operator at the North-Eastern School of Wireless Technology in Bridlington.

It must have been a proud moment for him when, almost one year later, he boarded his first ship as a second Wireless Operator. The German U-boat campaign against merchant shipping was at its height, but "Bobs" was happy in the knowledge that he was serving his country. His service was however destined to last only for eleven months, for he and his shipmates fell victims to one of the many acts of calculated brutality to which the Nazis have lowered themselves.

In August, 1941, whilst sailing in the waters off the Irish coast his ship was struck by a torpedo fired by a U-boat and with the ship sinking rapidly the order "abandon ship" was given. When the apparent safety of the boats was reached the submarine commander dealt a treacherous and cruel blow—he machine-gunned the life boats—and of the entire ship's crew there were only two survivors. "Bobs" McEwan was not one of these.

Of Robert Couper McEwan we may well be proud and our deep sympathy goes out to his mother and younger brother in their great loss.

CPL. J. W. RAE WILSON.

It is with deep regret that we record the death on active service of Rae Wilson (1929), who endeared himself to a wide circle of friends by his happy disposition and the infectious good humour which was characteristic of his personality.

After leaving John Watson's in 1929, Rae went to Daniel Stewart's College, where he played for the 1st XI. at Cricket and several times for the 1st XV. at Rugby, in which injuries prevented him from gaining a regular place. He left Stewart's in 1932 to study law and at the beginning of the war he had only two subjects to pass to become a qualified solicitor. Being a territorial in the Lothian and Border Horse, he was called up and left Messrs Horne & Lyell,

W.S., Edinburgh, to join his unit, where he quickly qualified as an Instructor. He transferred to a regular unit, the 44th Royal Tanks, and was in the Middle East from April, 1941, until 17th June, 1942, when an accident at the base caused his death. His O/C writes of Rae, "He was devoted to duty and held in great esteem by all who knew him," and his C/O pays the following tribute, "We shall all miss him very much. He was excellent at his job, a very hard worker, and very popular with his fellows."

Rae indeed will be missed very much, not only by his army friends, but also by many from John Watson's, Stewart's, Manderston Cricket Club and Berwick Rugby Club, of which he was captain.

To those who will miss him most of all, his mother and sisters, Joy and Jenny (Mrs Macrae) we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their great loss. Rae was only twenty-seven when the Great Call came, but truly it may be said of him, "In a short space he fulfilled a long time."

G. D. S. FORSYTH.

MR W. R. MENZIES.

How often when we pay our Annual Subscriptions do we think of the man to whom we are sending it. Too often, I fancy, we just think of the John Watson Club and too often we forget that no organisation, however great or small, can run smoothly unless its machinery is efficient. It has previously been said that subscriptions are the back-bone of the Club's existence and if that is so then surely one of the most important office-bearers of the Club is its Treasurer.

In 1937 when the two Former Pupils' Clubs amalgamated, and became known as the John Watson Club, Mr W. R. Menzies was appointed as its first Treasurer and during the seven years that have passed he has served the Club faithfully. Those of us who have been privileged to see the inner workings of the Club will remember the quiet unassuming way in which he presented his financial reports, and, to the benefit of those not so well versed in financial matters, he possessed the invaluable gift of being able to make these reports models of clarity, easily understood by all.

The John Watson Club has indeed been fortunate to have had such a man as its treasurer, and it is with regret that the Council have accepted his resignation owing to ill health. The strain of carrying out his increased war-time duties at the Head Office of the National Bank of Scotland in Edinburgh, together with the work entailed by the other treasurerships which he so willingly held brought about a breakdown in health, which laid him low for several months at the end of last year. Levites will however be happy to know that he is now gradually regaining his full strength once again and may be glad in the sure knowledge that his firm interest in all Club affairs will be maintained.

MR J. D. W. SPENCE.

On the invitation of the Council, Mr J. D. W. Spence has agreed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr W. R. Menzies from the Treasurership of the Club. Jack Spence is eldest of three of a family educated at John Watson's. While there he showed that he possessed a keen brain and on leaving John Watson's, in 1923, he continued his education at the Royal High School, Edinburgh. He later took up Accountancy as a career, and in addition to being a member of the Society of Chartered Accountants, whose final examinations he passed in 1933, he is also a Bachelor of Commerce. In 1941 his ability was recognised by his appointment to the secretaryship of the well known Edinburgh firm of "Mackie's."

Since he left John Watson's he has maintained a full interest in Club affairs ; one evidence of which is shown by the fact that for a number of years past he has audited the financial accounts of the Club. The members may rest assured that in him they have a worthy successor to Mr Menzies. Will the members please note that Mr Spence's address is now 30 St. John's Road, Corstorphine.

THE FOUNDATIONERS' TRUST.

With the fine record behind them of three successive years' success in helping to keep the traditions of the School intact through the medium of the Tradition Fund, the way is now clear for inviting the former pupils to take up again the ambitious scheme of increasing the number of Foundationers of the School. It will be remembered that the idea was first mooted by Colonel James Donaldson, a Levite of 1877, who headed the subscription list in May 1938 with an investment valued at £375 (but now worth £500). A second contribution from him was a valuable collection of foreign stamps which was sold for £50. At his instigation a trust deed was drawn up in August 1937, whereby three trustees were appointed, namely, the Chairman of the Directors of the School, the Club President and the Headmaster, and the specified objects of the Fund are shortly these :—

- (1) to increase or help to increase the number of Foundationers.
- (2) to assist in the " maintenance, clothing and upbringing as boarders at or in connection with the School of foundation pupils."
- (3) to help the mothers or guardians of Foundationers to meet expenses which they themselves would otherwise have to incur.
- (4) to make outlays for the benefit of the Foundationers in any other way approved by the Trustees.

When an appeal for funds was made in February 1938, it was announced that the Club had, in support of the scheme, granted the sum of £100 from its Development Fund. The appeal resulted in £162 being gathered. At 30th November 1943 the capital at the credit of the Trust was £679 6s. 4d., (the investments being taken at cost) while the revenue account showed a balance of £163 18s. 11d.

It is recognised that the present disturbed time is not ideally suitable for taking up the interrupted role of collecting from the former pupils a sum large enough to enable the Trustees to begin to administer the Fund. To counter-balance this, Colonel Donaldson has made a very generous offer. He is ready to double any sum which other Levites raise up to a total of £5000. Contributions to the Fund may be made now in cash or in promises of payment over a number of years or by the inclusion of a bequest in a will. In all cases of intentions to pay, intimation should be made before 30th June 1944. It is not necessary for me to add more as the powerful appeal which Colonel Donaldson made himself in his recent circular letter to all former pupils, backed by a letter from Professor Stevenson, should cause all right-thinking Levites to make some response, no matter how inadequate that may be thought by themselves to be.

Donations amounting to £118 have already come to hand, while promises of gifts and bequests amounting to £400 have been intimated.

Will the Levites kindly note to post their cheques or other remittances to the School Treasurer, Mr C. F. M. Maclachlan, W.S., 16 Walker Street, Edinburgh. Intimations about promises or bequests should be sent to him as well as to Colonel Donaldson, P.O. Box 3308, Johannesburg, South Africa.

D. M. THOMSON.

THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING.

The passing of the months once more brought round the 42nd Annual General Meeting of the Club which was held on the evening of Thursday, 27th January, at 111a George Street, Edinburgh. Once again also the Club, still exiled from the precincts of the School, was indebted to Miss Bruce for providing the necessary accommodation.

War time conditions naturally limited the attendance, but those Levites who did find the time and means of attendance must have been agreeably pleased (and possibly surprised) at the manner in which the Club has been able, in the succeeding years of war, not only to keep in being, but even to gain strength in some measure.

The Chairman, in the absence of the Treasurer through illness, was able to report on the healthy position of the Club's finances, and it was specially pleasing to note that of all the Club's funds the Annual Subscriptions—surely the very back-bone of any Club's activities—had been maintained by the members on almost a pre-war level. From this source the Club obtains the finance necessary to continue the annual awards of bursaries and prizes and the publication of The Levite, to mention only some of the various outlets of expenditure. Levites will therefore realise how valuable these subscriptions are to the Club.

The routine business of the Treasurer's and the Council's Annual Reports, followed by the election of office-bearers for the ensuing year being over, the meeting proceeded to discuss—surely one of the most generous offers which the Club has ever received—Colonel James Donaldson's scheme for the enlargement of the Foundationers' Trust to dimensions which would permit more children to share in the benefits of education at John Watson's. The scheme in full had already been circulated to the members and the meeting unanimously agreed that the Club should show its appreciation of Colonel Donaldson's generosity by encouraging Levites to back him up to the limit of their resources.

The office-bearers elected to serve for the current year were as follows :

President—D. M. Thomson.

Vice-Presidents—

Miss Jean D. Bruce, M.B.E., and George D. S. Forsyth, M.A.

Secretary and Editor of Levite—A. D. Murray, P.A.S.I.

Deputy Secretary—Miss J. Rhind, M.A.

Treasurer—W. R. Menzies, since resigned, and his successor is J. D. W. Spence, C.A.

Members of Council—Professor W. B. Stevenson, D. L. G. Hunter, J. D. Shannon, Miss W. L. Gellatly, Miss D. Drysdale, Miss P. Winter, Miss N. Thomas.

THE COUNCIL'S ANNUAL REPORT.

The Council has pleasure in presenting its 42nd Annual Report to the members. The continued National Emergency has of necessity again greatly curtailed many of the Club's activities, but the Council is happy to report that the Club nevertheless continues to hold its own against the many difficulties brought about by the prevailing conditions.

As the Treasurer's statement shows, the members have been fully alive to the importance of continuing not only to pay subscriptions but also of backing up the schemes which the Club has in hand. The Council is therefore confident that each member will continue to contribute liberally.

The membership of the Club has again increased and during the past year has risen from 323 to 336, made up of 202 old boys and 134 old girls. It is with great regret, however, that the Council records the death, on active service in the Middle East, of Cpl. J. W. Rae Wilson (1929) and also of Mr A. J. Wright (1882) and Miss M. Halliburton.

It is with pleasure that the Council reports that the Club War Memorial Bursar this year is D. H. Marshall and the Miss Murray Memorial Bursar is Miss S. McKellar.

The Club presented the following medals and prizes on the Vacation Day in July last.

School Dux Medal and Books	John Hart.
Dux Girl Medal and Books	Janet Carson.
Rowe Memorial Medal for Religious Knowledge	Olaf Dennison.
Langhorne Memorial Medal for Latin .	William Beveridge
Ronaldson Prize for Writing	Janet Carson.
School Sports Championship Prize . .	John Hart.

The Council also desires to send its greetings to the 102 Levites of both sexes now serving their Country in H.M. Forces and couples with them the hope that by the time its next report is presented the Club will be once again carrying out to the full its varied activities.

The Council desires to express its cordial thanks to Mr Rowe for his kind co-operation in all matters concerning the Club.

By order of the Council,

A. D. MURRAY, Secretary.

Club Talk

John Watson's has this year the distinction of supplying two of the members of the Council of the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh. They are Professor McNeil and Dr. Alexander. It may be of interest to Levites to know that Professor McNeil can claim relationship with Vans Hathorn, the first Treasurer of the School.

It is interesting to read in the School Notes of the lantern lectures given by Prof. Stevenson and others to the pupils. Surely there must be other Levites or friends of the School who could give equally interesting talks and lectures. The Headmaster writes to say that "such a bond with the School would be very valuable" and any offers should be made direct to him or to the Secretary.

Effie Gomez is now a first year Arts Student at Glasgow University. Her brother, Joe Gomez (1942) has taken up marine engineering as a career and is now serving his apprenticeship with the Glasgow firm of Aitchieson & Blair.

Lyndall Miles, after a very successful stay at Wycombe Abbey School, Bucks, is now in her second year at St. Andrew's University taking an Arts Course.

Jack Scroggie (1936) has recently been discharged from the Army after an attack of infantile paralysis. This he contracted while serving with the R.A.S.C. in India, but Levites will be glad to know that he has now fully recovered.

Norman Barnett (1929) who joined the Royal Scots shortly after leaving John Watson's has also been discharged from the Army after suffering from a nervous breakdown, and has, we are glad to learn, now regained good health.

Robin Foster (1937) has on occasion played for Heriots F.P. 1st XV. at stand-off half. Oliver Cran (1940) home on leave from the R.A.F., played for Stewarts College F.P. 1st XV. Pamela Winter has for the past two seasons been a member of the Edinburgh Ladies' College 1st XI. Hockey Team.

To the following Levites we tender our best wishes and congratulations.

Marriages :

At Yeovil, Somerset, in October, 1943, W. L. Orr (1929) to Miss J. S. Morrison, Elgin.

At Nairobi, Kenya, in November, 1943, R. G. Scott (1931) to Miss B. Dewell, Zanzibar.

At Edinburgh, in August, 1943, Miss Thora MacLeod to Franz Hoenigsberger.

A. Booth (1933), Miss Jean White and Miss M. Fraser (Mrs Simpson) have also married.

Births :

At London, in February, 1944, to Mrs A. Lunan (Jean Orr) a son.

At Edinburgh, in April, 1944, to Mr and Mrs J. D. W. Spence, a daughter.

School Notes

BOYS' PAGE.

Since The Levite was last published, Miss Brookman has left, and the boys have said goodbye to her with great regret, especially the boys of "Four Primary." Another loss felt most grievously throughout the School, has been occasioned by Miss MacIntyre's appointment to new work. Mr Lindgren's connection with John Watson's has also been broken, we hope only for the time being, by the difficulties of travel. In wishing all three good luck, we offer the warmest of welcomes to their successors, Miss Mathers, who has already made herself a distinctive place at Marchmont, Miss MacLagan, and Flying Officer Blackburn, who cycles over from Charterhall R.A.F. Station on Friday evenings for gym and on Tuesday afternoons for boxing, which is now establishing itself as a regular sport. Meanwhile Ben has been greatly missed during his long illness, and we hope we shall again have him with us soon. In the summer term, as professional service was unobtainable, he had shown his universal adaptability and cheery spirit by turning boy's barber.

The sports were run off before Founder's Day, to allow more time for the speeches, concert, P.T. display, and exhibitions of work. John Hart was both Dux and Sports Champion, the previous year's champion, Ian Barbour, being unable to compete owing to an injured knee. The cricket eleven and rugger fifteen have both had enjoyable seasons and encouraging success, the honours of victory being about equally shared with usually older and heavier opponents. We wish here heartily to congratulate the hockey team on their excellent record. Another open winter has meant less sledging and skating, but more rugger and hockey practice.

The new time-table, with three half holidays in the week, instead of the former free Saturday, is now in full swing. In the garden enough ground has been broken for it to be worked in individual plots. Our fifteen scouts have their uniforms and their official status as the 1st Marchmont Troop, and have earned encouraging reports from the Regional and District Commissioners. We hope their numbers and activities will increase as impressively as the Guides have done. In the spring term a small woodworking club was formed with its own tool kit. Much of the School wood working time has been given to toy making, and, if results were disappointing at Christmas it was a necessary reminder that haste is no substitute for honest work, and that quite simple toys, unless mass produced, need a good deal of the latter. Owing to war time difficulties, the epidiascope works best with slides. During the winter there have been illustrated lectures on Palestine, Morocco, Babylon (from Professor Stevenson), Scotland and Greece. We have also had the privilege of hearing Captain McEwan on several occasions. The feature of the year has, however, been the production at Marchmont and Greenlaw of the "Merchant of Venice," by a cast trained and led by Mr Aynsley Smith and Mr Arthurson. The staging and general organisation was smoothly efficient, the scenery delightful, the actors looked charming, and much of the acting and diction was both distinguished and attractive. This was the first Shakespearean venture since Mr Tombleson's day, and by it and other means, including direct contribution and the sale of handwork, a large sum has been raised for charity.

G. W. ROWE.

GIRLS' PAGE.

Once more spring is in the air, but alas! with its pleasures it brings the realisation that the Notes for the "Girls' Page" must be written before there is any real feeling of summer.

School has enjoyed its fifth winter, a singularly mild and snowless one, and fifth spring, the usual glory of snowdrops followed close by the daffodils and narcissi, still happily housed in our Border fastness at Marchmont. The seasons slip so easily by here, that only a casting back of the mind forces us to realise that some changes have taken place.

But the "Girls' side" in particular, sustained a loss in July in Miss Brookman, who is now teaching in Ackworth, Yorkshire; and at the end of this term, Miss McIntyre, our oldest residenter, deserts the old school to become a visiting Music Mistress under Midlothian Education Authority. So if she should be seen by Former Pupils in Princes Street of a Saturday morning in the summer term, when we are hard at work, it must not be assumed that it is truancy. Miss Brookman's successor, Miss Mathers, is now well settled in, and Miss McLaggan, a native of Miss McIntyre's own county has been appointed as her successor.

Another change among the girls is that no longer on Mondays are little brown figures to be seen dancing round their toadstool, with yellow ties round their necks. They are now Guides. Their Brownie uniforms have been dyed blue, and they now dance round their Patrol Leaders, with the yellow ties in their hands, asking for instruction on First Aid and Bandaging. So we now have thirty-five Guides, which makes 1st Marchmont the largest company in the County. The beginning of the fourth year of Guiding brings us up to full strength, for now every girl in the School has chosen to be a Guide, and from the fact more than half are Second Class Guides, with many proficiency and some National Services badges, and that even our youngest have passed their Tenderfoot, it would seem, keen Guides.

Guide activities as usual have been varied. The Easter term saw the production in the Music Room of a pantomime by the Brownies and a scene from Shakespeare by the Guides, to help company funds. Gradually, as the weather grew warmer, outdoor activities were the order of the day. Trails were laid through field and woodland and small groups of Guides went on to the moor on patrol hikes to enjoy the fun and excitement of cooking in the open. Once again they gathered sacks of lesser celandine, rose hips and elder flowers in their seasons. But for the Patrol Leaders the great day was when they went to Galashiels to meet the Chief Guide.

During the year the girls have done a fair share of Red Cross work. In the spring term they hemmed two dozen towels and made two dozen ear and eye bandages. But in the winter term our war work took a most pleasurable form, for we were asked to make soft toys for a Red Cross Sale in Greenlaw. Having collected bits and pieces from all and sundry, the work was begun, and animals' feet, heads, and limbs began to take shape. In the end the bears' heads became attached to bears' bodies and pigs' heads to pigs' bodies with all the heads facing the same way as the feet. Then with the clothing of the animals the real fun began. Mother bears and pigs appeared in floral dresses and trim aprons, with their young tucked under their arms in a maternal way, and bachelor rabbits and lambs in brightly-coloured trousers and gaily striped shirts, immaculate to collars and ties, were soon joining the party of finished toys. So sorry were School to see them go that some of the needlewomen walked to Greenlaw to buy back their own animals. But it was a pleasant thought that, priced at 10s. 6d. and 12s. 6d. they must have realised £6 10s. 0d., and with the squirrels and soft balls made by the little girls, our contribution to the Red Cross must have been considerable. Now we are back to knitting khaki pullovers and face-cloths for soldiers and the work of hemming thirty triangular bandages is begun—war work in its more ordinary guise.

The Girls' Hockey season is drawing to a close—the close of a record season, for at the moment we can claim to have an undefeated 1st XI., in spite of challenging only 1st XIs., and some of these Senior Secondary Schools. The girls, now all out for speed and efficiency, have elected to play in blouses, knickers without tunics and stockings rolled down to the ankles, and look like a cluster of Principal Boys from a pantomime—until they run. Miss Blair has replaced Miss Brookman as Games Mistress, but she and Miss Mathers share the work, taking alternate practices and sharing matches. Its working so well is a tribute to both and there is no doubt about their close co-operation being the greatest benefit to the game. But in spite of a season of wins, feeling still runs highest at the House Sevens (which this year for want of numbers had to be House Sixes). By good luck, each house won one game, so another Saturday afternoon will be happily filled with a similar contest before the end of the spring term.

Enthusiasm does not stop at outdoor activities. More than half of the girls have joined the Bible Reading Fellowship. So every interstice of time is filled, what with Bible reading before breakfast, during the day browsing over "The Merchant of Venice" for the play now toward, and after prep. signalling in morse in the school-room. With such interests to crowd the day, the weeks and months slip by, and it is difficult to realise that another whole year has flown.
